DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 12 — The wife of an Edgely man was severely upbraided Monday when she appeared in court. Mrs. Emily Brauchle, 1635 North Cadwallader street, Phila., an attractive, blonde young woman had her husband arrested and brought into court. Then it is alleged she visited his home to take what she wanted.

Judge Edward G. Blester lecturing her said:

"Madame, if you weren't this man's wife you would be here on a burglary charge. You used the court for a cloak in order to take the law into your own hands."

Mrs. Brauchle admitted that she had taken her estranged husband's shirts, underwear, insurance papers and books and some other possessions. "I didn't have time to look at what I was taking," she said.

Judge Blester because of the wife's conduct while her husband was up here in domestic relations court awaiting her appearance, directed that her support order be suspended until she returns her husband's possessions.

The husband was directed to pay his wife $10 a week on May 9. He was in default $90 by June 19, when she had an attachment issued and had him appear in court here last week.

Judge Blester ordered the case continued until Oct. 2, directed the husband and wife to settle between themselves the disposition of their furniture, and warned the wife that she must never again "use the arm of the court in the manner in which she did."

Mrs. Brauchle admitted that her attorney knew nothing about her plans. "Well, I should hope not," said Judge Blester.

THE WAR

By Howard Handleman

Far Eastern Director, INS
TOKYO, Sept. 12 — (INS) — The United Nations command today admitted one of its planes mistakenly strafed neutral Kaesong but denied Red charges that Allied aircraft have violated the "air space" over the truce conference city 139 times.

The North Korean-Chinese military chiefs meanwhile told Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN supreme commander, that the Reds would renew the parley only on their own terms and only in Kaesong rather than elsewhere as Ridgway proposed.

The two commands traded new notes which may finally decide the fate of the armistist talks, suspended for nearly three weeks.

Following this exchange, Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters slapped down Communist claims of 139 Allied "violations" of the "air space" over the neutral zone.

Bogus Money from Work-

This is the eighth article of a series dealing with the exploits of the U. S. Secret Service, with information supplied from the files of the Secret Service itself.

By James Lee

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 — (INS)

A neatly-dressed, dark-haired young man bought a carton of cigarettes in a Monterey Park (Calif.) grocery store on Nov. 10, 1947, and offered a $20 bill in payment.

The alert girl clerk on duty spotted the bill as bogus. She called the police, who notified the Secret Service. Agents questioned the youth, Armando Molina, who said he got the $20 note from "a man named Joe."

"Joe" turned out to be Joe Rivas, a Cuban, living in San Bernardino, Cal., who was arrested the same day. He was identified as an ex-inmate of the Ohio State Penitentiary.

Rivas said he got his supply of counterfeit money from "a friend in Fontana." The agents promptly visited the "friend" and found him to be Norman G. Riedel, 27. Riedel had a story to tell and he told it readily.

His workshop was filled with plates, negatives and other materials for counterfeiting $20 Federal Reserve notes. Also discovered were face and back plates for counterfeit State of California unemployment compensation checks, about 125 of which had been passed in San Diego County a month earlier.

Riedel confessed that he had manufactured 200 of the fraudulent checks during the month of September and that Rivas had cashed 120 of them, for $20 each.

The prisoner went on to say that

CONGRESSMAN FROM BUCKS COUNTY?

Many different opinions will be heard on the important political question which must be decided rather quickly—whether the next Republican nominee for Congress from this Eighth Pennsylvania (Bucks-Lehigh) Congressional District shall be selected from Lehigh or from Bucks county.

The question is raised unexpectedly, due to the sudden death of Congressman Albert C. Vaughn, of Catawauqua, Lehigh County.

Under the state laws and the Republican Party by-laws, a nominee for the vacancy will have to be chosen through party machinery within the next few days to be voted on at the general election, November 6.

The exact procedure is for the Governor to issue a writ of election calling for the vacancy to be filled at the November election, and for a nominating group representing the Republican county committees of the two counties to be summoned by the Republican State Chairman. Membership in the conference committee is on the basis of the number of Republican votes cast in each county for the Republican candidate for President in 1948—one member for each one thousand votes.

For many years—eighteen, to be exact—it has been taken for granted that Lehigh County, which was much the larger of the two, and the one with the biggest industrial problem, was the county most entitled to the Congressman. Lehigh has had four Congressmen in a row—Oliver W. Frey, Democrat, elected in 1933; Charles L. Gerlach, Republican, elected in 1938; Franklin H. Lich-

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 12 — Doylestown's biggest real estate business transaction in many years, involving approximately a half-million dollars, was announced today when the Bucks county grand jury in session here this week, approved the purchase of the building now housing the Scheetz's Furniture Company store, on Monument Square, for additional space for Bucks county Court House offices, until the present Court House is enlarged.

At the same time, the sale of the widely known Clymer's Department Store on South Main street—doing the largest retail general store business in Bucks county—to Frank T. Reynolds, owner of Scheetz's, was announced. The complete transaction for the County of Bucks, Scheetz's and Clymer's, was handled by three Doylestown realtors, Robert H. Lippincott, J. Carroll Molloy and Wynne James.

The purchase of the Scheetz's Store building was contemplated some time ago when additional Court House office space became necessary and plans were in the making to enlarge the present Court House. Today the purchase became a reality after being approved by the Commissioners, the Court and the Grand Jury. The purchase price of the Scheetz's store building was $120,000. The balance of the approximate half million dollar transaction, represents the transaction between the owner of Scheetz's Store and the owners of Clymer's Department Store, Paul E. Mills and Oscar Haney.

Today's announcement is additional.

TO ELIMINATE "BEND"
AT LAUREL BEND SITE*To Dedicate Part of Tract To Bristol Twp. Officials;
Raze House*BEGIN 30 MORE HOUSES

Houses continue to be erected in lower Bucks County. Construction is being started by Margo Homes, Inc., on another group of 30 dwellings on the Bath road tract of Margo Gardens, adjacent to the site where the first lot of houses was built by this firm.

Yesterday workmen commenced the demolition of the house at Laurel Bend recently occupied by the Bellini family, and occupied for some years previous to that by the Gallagher family. The "bend" is to be practically taken out of Laurel Bend, a portion of the land (where the Bellini house stands) being dedicated by Margo Gardens, Inc., to Bristol township.

"The intersection at Laurel Bend will thus be widened considerably, and the intersection made far less hazardous," stated a spokesman for the firm today.

The 30 new houses are to be of the one-story, ranch type, brick construction, the same as those already built. The tract on which some have been erected and the new ones are to be constructed totals 25 acres. Later, houses will be placed on the former Bellini tract, a 40 acre plot. It is planned to have 350 houses on the 65 acre tract. The construction which is now getting underway will be on David Drive and Gary Drive.

Leaders of Girl Scouting throughout Bucks County are planning to spend the week-end of September 14th at the Bethlehem Girl Scout Camp Helena, eight miles from Quakertown. The occasion is the first Fall Meeting of the Bucks County Leaders' Club.

Leaders will be able to attend a part of or the entire week-end which will begin Friday evening and close Sunday afternoon.

The agenda for this get-together will re-emphasize the Scouting program and its ideals. Its purpose will be to permit the exchange of ideas among Leaders, the learning of new skills and, incidentally, to have fun in doing both. Special attention will be paid to nature craft, outdoor cooking, group singing, folk dancing and evening campfires.

Co-chairmen for this week-end are Mrs. Raymond Gross of Langhorne, and Mrs. Alfred Nunemaker of Aqueetown. Their committee includes Mrs. Howard Kritter, Eureka; Mrs. Norman Weber, Langhorne, and Mrs. John Moreton, Solebury.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS*Marshall Resigns As Defense Secretary

Washington—Gen. George C. Marshall today resigned as Secretary of Defense for "very personal reasons" and President Truman immediately named Deputy Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett to the cabinet post.

The White House announcement of Marshall's resignation emphasized, in effect, that the President remains firmly of the opinion that the five-star general is, as Mr. Truman once said, "the greatest living American."

The resignation was effective at 11 a. m. today.

William C. Foster, administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, will succeed Lovett and Richard M. Bissell, Jr., now deputy administrator will become acting administrator of ECA.

The President accepted the resignation "with great reluctance" and said:

"I understand fully and am sympathetic with the reasons for your resignation at this time, and I am most appreciative of your willingness to remain two months beyond our agreement in order to complete your activities concerning the universal military training act."

In his letter of resignation to the President, Gen. Marshall had said that "our original understanding prior to my appointment was that I would serve only until 30 June 1951—that time has now been extended more than two months."

Marshall wrote the President:

"With deep regret I feel that I must terminate my active daily service in the government, and therefore submit by resignation as Secretary of Defense to be effective within the next two weeks."

Carroll, to the stage as the star of "Home at Seven," latest play by R. C. Sheriiff. It has been a hit in London for two years and will be presented on Broadway in the fall by John Golden. "Home at Seven" has been presented at several important summer theatres in each of which it was praised as tense, absorbing and highly entertaining.

"Home at Seven" is the last production of the current season, and Theron Bamberger is already making plans for the reopening of the Bucks County Playhouse under his management early in June of 1952. This has been his 11th season as producer of the Bucks County Playhouse.

This is a second time for both star and playwright to be represented at the Playhouse. Mr. Carroll acted in "Angel Street," Mr. Sheriiff, author of the new classic "Journey's End," also wrote "Miss Mabel" in which Lillian Gish starred at New Hope early in June.

FLYING TO THE MOON

Fifty scientists from a dozen countries, ended a six day meeting in London September 9 at which they seriously discussed flying to the moon. After discussing the prospects of lunar rocket trips and the problems of setting up a "space station" outside the earth's atmosphere, they returned home by bus, train and boat. None flew to or from the meeting.

The real problem, as Dr. L. R. Shepherd, technical director of the British Interplanetary Society, which organized the meeting, sees it is how to get to the moon economically. The cost, he is convinced, would be astronomical.

But he hopes, within his lifetime, to see the first satellite station established on its orbit around the earth, he added. Lunar aviation involves highly technical considerations, such as the reaction of man's body beyond the force of gravity.

"Without gravity man has no weight and we do not know yet what will happen to him," said Dr. A. E. Slater of the interplanetary society. There would probably be a constant sensation of falling, he averred.

It was brought out at the sessions, which were attended by Lieutenant Commander Fred Durant, director of the United States Naval Aid Rocket Test Station, that in all probability the first artificial satellite would be a robot-rocket.

Projecting a piloted rocket into a stable orbit where it could remain as long as the pilot desired, would come next. The scientists theorized that the pilot could reduce the speed of his craft, bring it out of its orbit by firing rocket-jets and land back on earth with the aid of wings.

Robots would pioneer trips to the moon also, according to the scientists. Robot rockets would be sent to circumnavigate the moon, followed by piloted rockets on the same, around-the-moon course. Then would come the first lunar landing.

NO WHINES IN SEPTEMBER

Master Shakespeare did more than perhaps any other writer of English literature to characterize the schoolboy as a creature "creeping like snail, unwilling to school."

The traditional snail-like pace of the schoolboy may have been all right in Elizabethan days but if the hard were to come back and visit these parts on the first days of a new school term he'd tug on his beard in amazement.

There is a very definite excitement in hundreds of American homes and bubbling enthusiasm in American schools, at least in the last few weeks of a new school year.

Perhaps it's due to the change of pace for the youngsters or, in some instances, the expression of relief that the hunderd August days are over or the opening of avenues for new experiences, meeting new friends, and renewing old acquaintances.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—Critics of the low morality existing in the federal government today are overlooking a basic factor in the dismal situation. A tour of Europe makes this obvious. Today nobody can trust our government's word. And by government I don't mean the thousands of honest federal employees who have the highest sense of integrity and devotion to duty. The trouble is all above their heads, with few exceptions.

It used to be that the average American accepted whatever his government said as gospel. When a President, cabinet member or leading bureaucrat issued a dictum, it was believed. In other words, we had a feeling that men of integrity were talking. They felt the same way in Europe, until recently.

Today a foreign newspaperman or U. S. reporter who accepts more than 10 per cent of official statements on their face value is in need of a psychiatrist.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors worked up a Committee on Freedom of Information. After a few looks at Washington, the editors on the committee blurted out the following paragraph:

"We editors have been assuming that no one would dispute this premise: That when the people rule, they have a right to know all their government does. This committee finds appalling evidence that the guiding credo in Washington is just the opposite: That it is dangerous and unwise to let information about the government leak out in any unprocessed form."

The State Department is a prime example of how little value is placed on integrity. During the 1949 hearings on the North Atlantic Treaty, Senator Bourke Hickenloper, Republican of Iowa, asked the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, the following question, and received the following answer:

"Mr. Secretary, are we going to be expected to send a substantial number of troops over there as a more or less permanent contribution to the development of these countries' capacity to resist?"

Acheson: "The answer to that question, Senator, is a clear and absolute no."

Either Acheson had told another story to our allies, or he has to admit that he wasn't telling the Senator the truth.

President Truman has repeatedly misled newsmen at his weekly press conferences. He denies on one day action that he takes the next day. His cabinet officers follow suit. Nobody trusts anybody in Washington today, and everybody has good reasons for not doing so. I doubt if there is a reporter in the city worth his salt who has not been lied to repeatedly by some government official.

The most recent example of deception in high places involves the Department of State in relation to those undergoing a new loyalty or security examination. A dozen reporters in one day all called for information concerning the suspension of two top ranking officials in charge of Far Eastern affairs. They got a dozen different lies for their pains.

You'd think that government operations would be open to the public. After all, where is the need for secrecy, say in the Department of Commerce? The Department of State? Or Agriculture? Yet officials there and elsewhere seek to operate behind a curtain of lies and deception to serve an inflated political reputation.

It would be refreshing to operate under a government that is completely candid, privy to no political deceptions and one that takes the people supporting it into its confidence.

Congress is asked to provide more than 100 million dollars for the Voice of America. Political leaders prattle daily about how we must protect our reputation abroad—how we must sell America, over and above Communism.

Europeans aren't dumb. They can read about the daily deceptions practiced by our political leaders in Washington just as capably as we do. If the American people can't believe their government, how can we expect foreigners to believe it?

Lies multiply, as any liar knows. In Washington there is the greatest collection of pathological liars in the history of the government. To cure it, reporters ought to be equipped with lie detectors by their editors, and most government spokesmen should be required to strap on the equipment at press conferences. A little integrity at home goes a long way abroad. You learn this right quick overseas.

Alert Girl Aids In Arrest of Joe Rivas

Having cashed the checks so successfully, he decided to make the counterfeit bills and made 70 or 80 of them, turning 59 of them over to Rivas, who was operating on a 50-50 basis with him.

Riedel had worked as a photo finisher in San Bernardino. He acquired his knowledge of photo-engraving from a book on the subject, but owned a camera and other photographic equipment before he conceived the counterfeit scheme.

Riedel, Rivas and Molina were indicted by a federal grand jury at Los Angeles. The counterfeiters were sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary. Rivas, because of his past record, got four years, and Molina was given one year in the county jail.

In relating the Riedel story, Secret Service agents paid tribute to the keen perception of the girl who spotted the counterfeit bill Molina attempted to pass.

The government men urged that all merchants instruct their clerks to be on the alert for such bogus money.

Two Well-Known Stores Merge at Doylestown

tional evidence that Doylestown and Bucks county are continuing to grow.

In line with this trend of the times, the owner of Scheetz's has purchased Clymer's Store, taking over its entire ownership and operation. Mr. Reynolds will weld the two big stores into one great institution, under one roof, selling and servicing every conceivable item used in daily living.

The new, combined store, will be known as Scheetz-Clymer's. This action unites 128 years of successful retailing in Doylestown and surrounding counties. Clymer's Department Store, an institution in Bucks and adjoining counties—and the entire East for that matter, for many years, will continue to be just as well known, if not more so.

By increasing buying power, reducing the costs of freight and delivery, and adding the most up-to-date methods of retailing and service, Scheetz-Clymer's will be known as the largest and finest store in Bucks county.

For many years both stores have brought thousands of people to Doylestown annually. The stores are known by many people living in the nearby cities, who have spent their summers in Bucks county, or who have purchased homes here.

The greater Scheetz-Clymer's will have 21 separate departments, featuring every item for your table, convenience and home.

"Above everything," commented Frank T. Reynolds today, "the personnel and tradition of both Clymer's and Scheetz's will be maintained and where possible, improved, in order to render to the public the best and finest merchandise and service to be found anywhere at the lowest prices." "That is our pledge and our guide for the future," Mr. Reynolds added.

Clymer's Store has been in operation for 54 years and Scheetz's for 74 years, the two oldest stores in Bucks county.

Mr. Reynolds, a former president of the Doylestown Chamber of Commerce, and always interested in the best for the development of Doylestown, has been in Doylestown for the past sixteen years, and in the retail merchandising business for the past 31 years. In 1946, Mr. Reynolds was appointed to the important chairmanship of the Bucks County Price Control Board, an office that he served during World War II in an efficient manner.

Mr. Reynolds purchased the building where his present store is located on Monument Square, in 1943, and since that time has carried on a lucrative furniture business in what many have termed the most attractive furniture store in this section of the country. He has planned for several years to make further expansion, and the purchase of Clymer's Department Store is the result of his plan for a still greater retail merchandising business.

The original Scheetz Store was founded in 1878 and was first known as Rufe & Scheetz. Later the business was conducted by the founder's two sons, Mr. Reynolds became affiliated with the store in 1935, and later purchased the business.

"I am a firm believer in hard work, and a 100 per cent disbeliever in government doles and sponging on the Government for weekly or monthly handouts," Reynolds said today, when he admitted that he was tackling a gigantic enterprise, but only with faith in the future.

Clymer's Store was founded by F. L. Worthington and sold to the late Robert L. Clymer. It was then located at the corner of Clinton and Ashland streets, Doylestown.

The original store and other sites occupied by Clymer's, continued to operate as a typical country store, with its old-fashioned layout of departments, its mingled odors of pickles, coal oil, cheese, onions and molasses.

The Clymer Store business ran into the millions of dollars. In 1911 the Kolbe Building was leased for the Clymer Store. In 1926, Paul Mills became a full partner of Mr. Clymer, and when World War I broke out and Mills went into the service, Oscar Haney, a former Ottsville store clerk, became a partner. Mills returned to the store after his discharge from the service.

In the Fall of 1929 the three owners of Clymer's Store again decided on expansion and purchased the McLaughlin buildings and made alterations that gave them the new home of Clymer's greatest department store. Other adjoining warehouse buildings and garages are also in the sale announced today.

When the founder of the Clymer's Store died suddenly in July, 1949, one of the most colorful businessmen in the country passed away. Clymer's shipments have gone to all parts of the United States, and it is this same policy of making the Scheetz-Clymer's Store a drawing card to Bucks county and Doylestown shoppers, that the new owner will endeavor to carry on.

The present Scheetz's Store will move into the new combined quarters on South Main street, in the very near future.

Congressman From Bucks County?

tenwalter, Republican, elected in 1947; and Mr. Vaughn, elected in 1950.

The last Congressman from Bucks county was Henry W. Watson, who went to Congress about the time of the First World War, representing the District when it consisted of Bucks and Montgomery counties, and who was re-elected when the redistricting took place under the Act of 1931 putting Bucks and Lehigh counties together.

The closest Bucks county has come since then to having its own Congressman was when Mr. Frey represented the district—he was born in Richland Township, Bucks county, but moved to Allentown while a child—and when Mr. Lichtenwalter was elected, living barely a stone's throw from the edge of Bucks County, at Centre Valley, Lehigh County.

In reviewing the question of whether the counties should alternate (as happens in some districts) in furnishing the Congressman, and if one is to retain the honor which county it shall be, it is necessary to recall that the census of 1930, under which the present redistricting took place, gave Lehigh County a population of 172,000, and Bucks only 96,000. Moreover, the heavy industrial concentration around the Allentown-Bethlehem area made Lehigh at that time the big industrial county, with Bucks more suburban and agricultural.

This picture already has altered considerably, and is about to change in spectacular fashion. Bucks County is growing by leaps and bounds, is expected to surpass Lehigh county within a short span of years, and is headed to be one of the major industrial centers of the eastern seaboard.

Its rapid growth and development give this county an interest in, and need for, representation in Congress which never occurred before. The fact that thousands upon thousands of families are soon to move here, taking up residence in what only a few months back were farms and fields, and the fact that a great new steel enterprise, with the incredibly complex questions which are involved, is already being built, create an urgent demand for a representative in Washington who can have the most direct interest in and knowledge of this area.

Involved also are a number of sensitive political questions. With the influx of thousands of new workers, the political state-of-balance of this county is bound to be disturbed. Some of the major steel centers of the nation, for example, are just as stubbornly Democratic as this county has been loyal Republican.

The arrangement between Bucks and Lehigh Counties has been a sort of unwritten plan based on the concept of Lehigh County as being much more nearly "on the fence", politically, than Bucks County.

Giving Lehigh County the nominee has strengthened the Republican Party in that area, while Bucks County Republicans could be counted upon to support a good Republican candidate whether he came from this county or not.

As a matter of fact, before the plan was adopted, the Republican ticket was in trouble in the Bucks-Lehigh district. Henry W. Watson, with his outstanding record on Congress, nearly lost out in 1932. He carried Bucks county by 8000 votes, but lost Lehigh by more than 5000, so that his majority was cut to 3000. In 1936, the Republican candidate won out in Bucks County, but lost so heavily in Lehigh that he was defeated.

When the late Charles L. Gerlach was running for his second term, in 1940, he lost Lehigh, but was carried through to victory by his substantial majority in Bucks County.

One of the arguments which will be advanced is the proposition that from now on a Republican nominee from Lehigh County would face a tough, uphill fight if the Democrats were to nominate a man from the area of the new expansion in Bucks County, and were to appeal especially to the newer residents in Bucks County on the basis of giving them one of their own neighbors to help meet their problems in the national capital.

The fact is, of course, that the issue of giving Bucks County a turn at furnishing a congressman from the district already has been raised by the Democrats in a half-hearted fashion more than once in recent years, and might easily flare out into a major subject of the campaigning.

In view of the many complicated phases of this subject, it is unfortunate that there is not time available for extended consideration and discussion. But events have caught the district in a "squeeze", and the question will have to be answered, one way or the other, within the next few days.

the costs. There was evidence that his beer had been spiked with whiskey, as a joke.

Louis Kelly, 24, West Bristol, who was arrested by Trooper Michael Petroka near Bristol, July 22, and who pleaded guilty to driving after his operator's license had been suspended, was fined $100 and the costs.

Milton E. Kemmerer, 24, Quakertown, RD 2, who pleaded guilty to driving after his license had been suspended, was advised to get rid of his car and not apply for a driver's license without the approval of the court.

Trooper John F. Clisban, who arrested the defendant May 9, testified that his license was suspended in 1948 and 1950, and that he has been in constant trouble because of motor vehicle violations. The court suspended sentence pending the outcome of another case, an assault and battery charge against him on which the Grand Jury yesterday found a true bill. He was in domestic relations court last week.

Judge Edward G. Blester approved the withdrawing of a charge of assault and battery against William J. Strickler, Jr. The wife wanted the charges dropped and Judge Blester directed the defendant to pay the costs.

A Marine sergeant, Charles F. Vergon, 22, 1011 South Farragut Terrace, Philadelphia, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving in Quakertown, was sentenced by Judge Hiram H. Keller to serve three months in the County Prison, pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of $100.

He was arrested after his car, in which was found a bucket of ice with bottles of gin, wine and liquor, narrowly missed striking Ruth Somers, who was walking along Main street, Quakertown. The car, which "squealed" so loudly that a Quakertown State Policeman on desk-duty in the nearby sub-station, said: "I bet he will never make it" collided with a pole.

Two occupants, Elaine Clark and Elizabeth Beidel, Philadelphia taproom waitresses, were injured. Miss Clark said: "I am still not all right." One of them was unconscious for five days in the Quakertown Hospital. Miss Beidel, who was sitting in front with the defendant, had to be aided in walking to the witness stand.

"I had intended to send you to jail for 18 months," said President

Judge Keller to the defendant, who is from Michigan. An eloquent plea by a Marine Captain, who said the Marine's record was "superior," saved him from a longer penalty. State Trooper John F. Clisban and Chief of Police Newton Rapp investigated the accident. The defendant was so drunk that he thought he was in Chester instead of Quakertown.

Not one of the trio could give any intelligent testimony concerning their activities.

Dr. Fred J. Phillips said all three had the odor of alcohol on their breaths.

Party for Hospitalized Veterans Given by Unit

NEWTOWN, Sept. 12—Twenty-five members and friends of American Legion Auxiliary, Morrell Smith Post, No. 440, on Saturday evening motored to Valley Forge Veterans Hospital, Phoenixville, with a party for the soldiers.

Miss Madeline Esposito rendered songs for the men and Mrs. Justus Slack at the piano played for their enjoyment. Games were played and dancing participated in. Homemade cakes, cigarettes and coffee were served.

The party was arranged by Mrs. James Dawson, chairman of the rehabilitation committee of the Auxiliary, and her committee. At that time 17 handmade patch work quilts, made by Mrs. Phoebe Carver, aged 86, were taken to the hospital for the veterans. Many others have been made by Mrs. Carver, and Mrs. Mae Cooper has made over 20 for that hospital.

CHEMICAL MIXERS BEAT SOAPMAKERS BY THE SCORE OF 9-2

The Rohm and Haas-Manhattan Soap playoff series of the Bristol Industrial Softball League is now even at one victory each. Last evening, in the regular scheduled game, Rohm and Haas beat the soap-makers, 9-2. However, in the replay of the final inning of the game last week, the chemical mixers failed to score and therefore lost the game by a 5-4 count.

Rohm and Haas actually won the game played last week by scoring six runs in the final frame but the Manhattan team protested a decision and won the protest, the game being replayed from the point of the protest.

"Eddie" Kornichuck was the winning hurler of last evening's skirmish. He allowed the Manhattan boys but three scattered hits. One of these, a single by Ralph Kratz, mixed with two walks and an error, gave the losers their pair of tallies in the third.

Rohm and Haas had the lead from the start and clinched the contest by rapping Gallagher for a quartet of runs in the last inning.

Bert Barbetta slammed a home run in the first canto with Tony Cauti on base. He also had two singles to give him three out of four for his evening's work.

FIFTH WARD VS. 3M SERIES TO CONTINUE

The Fifth Ward-3M's playoff series of the Bristol Softball League will continue this evening with the second game scheduled to be played on Memorial Park softball field. Game will begin at six o'clock.

Fifth Ward won the opening tilt, 5-4, in a closely-fought battle. A Fifth Ward triumph this evening will end the series and give the crown to the Sporting Club. A Minnesota Mining triumph will deadlock the series with the third game scheduled for Friday evening.

It is most likely that Stanley Koreyva and George Wallace will again do the pitching. These boys were both off form in Monday's tilt with Koreyva barely coming through with the win. A last minute switch by Manager Ray Pierandozzi, of 3M's, may send Amy Lewis against Seddie Caro's team.

Bensalem Taxpayers Hold Bi-Monthly Session

EDDINGTON, Sept. 12 — The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Bensalem Taxpayers Association was held Monday evening in Ostromski's Hall. The meeting was called to order by Merritt Smith as chairman in place of Robert O'Neal, who was not present. Minutes were read from previous meeting and a report given by Raymond Wink, financial secretary, that Robert Davis, Andalusia, had received a permit to use the Bristol Township dump for a period of one year, since the Board of Health had ordered the Cornwells dump closed.

Robert Brenner introduced Samuel Aikens, Eddington Fire Chief, who spoke regarding the progress the company has made and the equipment bought. Volunteers were asked to make application.
